Thank you for taking our comments. Please support Option A for the Hoodoo Roadless Area, which guarantees traditional quiet recreation opportunities, critical winter habitat for sensitive species like mountain goats and wolverines, and connectivity for grizzly bears and other species between the Great Burn and the Cabinet-Yaak and Crown of the Continent ecosystems.

How will enforcement of restricted travel areas between the Surveyor and Hoodoo winter snowmobile areas? How will snowmobile use restrictions be enforced in Lake National Forest, just across the nearly imperceptible skateline?

The Great Burn ecosystem, a critical piece in a much larger ecosystem, is a truly untramelled place that I believe would never attain Wilderness Area designation if Option B were implemented.

Thank you for your consideration.
