				With the future of water in New Mexico being of utmost concern, I feel it is important to include areas adjacent to it including watersheds in the Cibola.
				In general, the acres that meet the criteria for proposed wilderness should all be included for the Protection & preservation of fish & wildlife, for a quiet place for future generations.
				There are enough areas with roads & infrastructure for people to ride their mountain bikes & ATVs. Drilling, mining, logging, & packing - all have no business in these areas & come with too high a price even if done "responsibly". If ranchers have existing grazing rights they can use horses to round up their livestock - they don't need ATVs. Keep wilderness wild.
