"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

These lands must be protected and I urge the agency to take action to block this destructive proposal.

The minors and loggers are killing the environments around where they are LOGGING and the minors are mining because the EPA is not doing their jobs and letting those loggers and minors have free reign as to what they seem to be doing.

The (LOGGERS) CUT down the trees and the minors are just polluting the water because they have to put their tailings someplace and it winds up in the rivers and make the water sometimes undrinkable.

"To whom it may concern,

"To whom it may concern,

Protect Tongass National Forest

"To whom it may concern,

"To whom it may concern,

"To whom it may concern,

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"Sustainable forestry should be numero uno. Y'all clear cut so much all over and don't put back in. The greed is overwhelming our land, people and environments. This isn't just speaking for Alaska. The timber sales in Arizona have created a more hostile environment due to opening up the canopy. The forest floor holds no moisture and is scarred and practically unable to support life beyond what humans think they need. It also creates a higher drought which will lead to more massive wildfires. If y'all have to take from our forests set a place to do so and do it practically by restoring what you consume please. This isn't a cry for Alaska this is a cry for our planet. I don't see why the usda as being the largest land owners can't see the issues or even have to pay for their actions. Please be smarter more respectful and do what you have to do with more reverence for our planet.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

Protect Tongass National Forest

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

There are too many negative side effects from this proposed move to take timber from the Tongass to seriously consider it being done. The environmental destruction to salmon fisheries humans depend on for a living and healthy food source is key, plus taking habitat from so many animals that need space to live in and thrive. The economic waste is another, as I have heard it said roads in to destroy this only temperate rain forest in the United States and North America would cost a million dollars a mile.

Certainly monies can be spent much better developing planned cuttings elsewhere in the U.S. that would cost much less to develop and not destroy habitat crucial to so many animals and food source for people that need the nutrition of salmon in their diets.

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! "To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

Tongass National Forest must remain protected

"To whom it may concern,

I demand you oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would irreparably compromise America's last remaining truly wild forest and deal a major blow to America's biodiversity. "To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

â€¢ In view of the UN Report on Climate Change (we only have 10 years to avoid catastrophic climate change damage), the Tongass is one of the world's best climate defenses. The old growth trees store nearly 10-12 percent of all carbon consumed by America's national forests -- and it's Alaska's first defense against the worsening climate crisis.

â€¢ In view of the UN Report "Climate Change Threatens the World's Food Supply," it will be disastrous to wipe out the magnificent salmon runs of the five species of Pacific Salmon. My family eats salmon every week, and Alaska sockeye salmon is my favorite.

â€¢ In view of the UN Report "One Million Species are at Risk of Extinction" and the National Audubon Society's warning the half of the world's bird species are at risk of extinction, logging and mining the Tongass furthers those unacceptable outcomes. Logging and mining would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to a wide range of wildlife, including Alexander Archipelago wolves, grizzly bears and all five species of Pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even 1000-year-old trees.

â€¢ The Tongass contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples who are dependent on it. Your proposal to destroy the Tongass represents continuing environmental racial injustice by the Trump Administration.

â€¢ Your proposal to open the door to clearcutting and bulldozing is irresponsible as well as economically and ecologically disastrous as it allows the unsustainable and failing logging industry to destroy the sustainable tourism, outdoor recreation, and fishing industries and Native American communities. The Tongass belongs to all Americans and shouldn't be sacrificed to bail out the timber industry, which provides only a small fraction of the jobs and income in Southeast Alaska compared to tourism, outdoor recreation, and fishing -- all of which rely on intact forests to thrive. As a nature and wildlife photographer, the Tongass is on my list to visit and photograph.

â€¢ The Roadless Rule is among the smartest and most popular land management policies the Federal Government has ever adopted. Not only does it preserve that pristine habitat, but it also saves untold millions of taxpayer dollars that might otherwise be spent to subsidize money-losing timber sales which are unsustainable. The value of the Roadless Rule in preventing environmentally damaging and economically wasteful road-building and logging is particularly relevant in the Tongass, where logging costs vastly exceed timber revenues and require unsustainable taxpayer subsidies. The Forest Service of the George W. Bush administration recklessly spent $30 million to clear cut an area in the Tongass National Forest, and not one tree could be removed economically from the area due to its remoteness. These trees were just cut down and left to rot. It was sickening. It's even more important to save these last remaining roadless forests because the Forest Service has fragmented and logged so much of our national forests, harming wildlife and waters along the way.

â€¢ The Roadless Rule continues to receive overwhelming support in Alaska and across the nation. Recent polling shows that 61 percent of voters nationwide oppose exempting large parts of the Tongass from the protections of the Roadless Rule. In Southeast Alaska, 60 percent support keeping the Roadless Rule in place, more than twice as many as those who support a Tongass exemption

Alaska is America's last Frontier and our last chance to get conservation right. We have already lost our other great old-growth forests to unsustainable logging: the redwoods and giant sequoias. The Tongass must be protected and I urge the agency to take action to block this destructive proposal.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

Closely related to fear of the unfamiliar, scarcityâ€”i.e. not having enough (enough food, land, protection, jobs, status, or whatever)â€”has always been humankind's greatest concern. Such deeply instinctive, constant, and at least partly (often entirely) subconscious fear, meanwhile, exists within all of us, independent of nationality, race, gender, wealth, politics, religion, etc.

Humanity's two main responses to the threat of not enough, however, couldn't be more distinct. On one hand, scarcity has always been the basis of conflict: â€œothersâ€” compete with/ jeopardize â€œme/my tribeâ€”. Others, then, are adversaries who must be weakened, repelled, even destroyed.

Which â€”others'? Per evolution, â€”different' others, of course, who, by whatever their differences, are seen as less worthy, less valuable, less â€œhumanâ€” than â€”we' are; the greater the perceived unlikeness, the greater this â€œtribalâ€” intolerance, injustice, and aggression.

Sadly, such obsolete (yet extremely persistent) tribal instincts have also always been the basis of conservatism. (Note that in less developed nations, it often holds true for all political factions (i.e. Left, Center, and Right). Whether about economics, health care, immigration, guns, foreign policy, religious issues, size/purpose of government, or any other topic of debate, the American Right's position is ultimately: â€œI/we matter more than youâ€”. Stemming from our ancient fear of not enough, conservatism is merely self-interestâ€” via contempt, repression, and theft.

Worse, countless immoral, well-connected, often malevolent entities (chasing profit and power) work unceasingly to manipulate the unaware. In fact, stoking tribalismâ€”to better control/con a target groupâ€”is likely as old as humanity itself. Yet, regardless of where on the planet one lives, and no matter how rich or poor a person/place may be, the effect of tribalism is simply division, hostility, and decline, during which power, money, and privilege drain ever more skyward.

Collaborationâ€”humankind's other typical response to scarcityâ€”has (ironically) always been the catalyst for peace, and for our universal advancement. Based on Christ-like compassion and empathy, plus the God-given, unalienable, equal humanity of all, mutually beneficial cooperation continues to be the cornerstone of our species' triumphs and progress.

Correspondingly, it is crucial for all of us to recognize that intolerance of innate differences, particularly when combined with entitlement and repression, is not just the source of the world's constant strife and suffering, but also the ultimate enemy of solutions. In fact, the only distinction that matters is the one which recognizes the interwoven, inseparable nature of all living things.

To truly unleash humankind's enormous problem-solving capacityâ€”i.e. its potential for massive, ever-increasing benefit to allâ€”we must therefore let go of our self-destructive tribal tendencies. Instead of endless â€”us/ them' prejudice and disintegration, see your role in the evolution of humanity as part of a forever expanding bucket brigade, conveying gradual, continuous, enduring gains for everyone.

Protect Tongass National Forest - Protection is Critical!

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

Beyond its natural beauty and cultural importance, the Tongass Forest is one of the world's best climate defenses. The old trees store nearly 10-12 percent of all carbon consumed by America's national forests -- and it's Alaska's first defense against the worsening climate crisis.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

"To whom it may concern,

Many decades ago, the Weyerhaeuser Corporation demonstrated that it's possible to do profitable "tree farming" on a more or less renewable basis on private lands. Weyerhaeuser's breakthrough makes it unnecessary to carry out most of the logging that's proposed for many public lands. And this is especially true of the Tongass National Forest in Alaska, which is extremely important as a reservoir of natural biological diversity. The Tongass also, because of its location, is in an area of the world where trees grow relatively slowly, which makes the prospect of growing back the trees after any extensive logging activity extremely problematic.

For these reasons and others, the Trump Administration's proposal to open up the Tongass to additional logging and mining activity makes very little economic sense, and makes no biological sense whatever.

To all appearances, the proposed relaxation of USDA rules and regulations to open up the Tongass to additional commercial activity has all the earmarks of right-wing, libertarian ideology in action, rather than any considered decision to balance the benefits and costs of the proposed logging and mining activity. It appears that this enormously unwise proposal is the work of an ideological fanatic close to the administration, such as Myron Ebell of the Competitive Enterprise Institute, whom I believe I have had the experience of debating in a cafe setting once on the environmental costs of unregulated American capitalism. From my experience of debating Mr. Ebell, or at least someone who looked a great deal like him, I believe he and the Competitive Enterprise Institute are largely dedicated to dismantling environmental regulations for largely ideological reasons, simply for the sake of doing so, because they go against an extremely simplistic model of the capitalist "invisible hand of the market" that most sophisticated economists have long since discarded.

If there are any real natural resources professionals and trained economists still for the the USDA and the Forest Service, I strongly urge you to reject the proposed deregulation of the Tongass on both economic and environmental grounds, as an ideological project that is out of step with the best long-term management of our public lands and the real long-term interests of American capitalism. The mere fact that extreme "free market" theory says the Tongass can be opened to nearly unrestricted commercial development is not really a good reason for doing it. And it is likely to cost Alaska and the people of the United States more in the long term than it will benefit the mining and logging companies in the short term.

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

Please SAVE Alaska's Tongass National Forest from ALL commercial development projects, now and for all time. It is VITAL to our future that we PRESERVE Tongass's natural state as a home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, a 1000-year-old tree and it encompasses the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

Given the increase in severe climatic events, from the extreme dryness in the west to the increase in the frequency and power of hurricanes and tornadoes in the east, it is hard to understand how this natural area could be considered for destruction by commercial projects. We MUST go in the opposite direction, moving to renewable energy. PLEASE do the right thing and protect Tongass. PLEASE put measures in place for its LONG-TERM protection as well, so that this is not an ongoing issue.

The Tongass is one of the last remaining intact temperate rain forests. Preserving it is an important act. Intact ecosystems are important for the overall health of our planet.

This proposition is simply another example of the Trump administration's propensity for leaving nothing intact.

Furthermore, there is no real economic rationale for logging or mining there. The federal government has a long history of losing money in logging our forests. It costs more to build and maintain roads than the we receive back in fees from logging companies. The proposition to open the Tongass up to logging and mining as a means of generating income for the national treasury is simply a specious argument.

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

We need the protection this National Forest gives against climate change and we need to preserve the ecosystems in the forest. Once gone to mining or logging, the forest will not come back. It should be preserved for future generations as well as the present generation.

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

The Roadless Rule states that certain special places on our earth under the protection of the United States are to be permanently protected. So how is this rule being undermined by one crazy man and his administration so easily. I have not seen the various cabinets under this administration actually do what they were created to do. Instead it seems that weakening the department, reducing staff and funding and heading the various department with men who are not qualified to do their particular job. That is what is facing our public lands under the USDA, the Dept. of Interior, the USFS, the EPA etc.

As the head of one of these departments you are in a position to protect, not destroy. There is a climate crisis and the earth needs trees/forests to give us oxygen, sequester CO2, provide recreational and emotional health and well being, and support bio-diversity. All of this is threatened when our temperate forests are sacrificed to industry for short term profits. How will this benefit your off spring? Even you are not in a position to escape the effects of climate change.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

These lands must be protected and I urge the agency to take action to block this destructive proposal.

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

These lands must be protected and I urge the agency to take action to block this destructive proposal.

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

These lands must be protected and I urge the agency to take action to block this destructive proposal.

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

These lands must be protected and I urge the agency to take action to block this destructive proposal.

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To Whom It May Concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of ten million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. Doing so would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to Pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! The region also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida, and Tsimshian peoples.

These lands must be protected, and I urge the United States Department of Agriculture to take action to block this destructive proposal.

Thank you for your care, concern, and consideration of this critical issue.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

Thank you,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.

"To whom it may concern,

I strongly urge you to oppose the opening of 10 million acres of land in Alaska's Tongass National Forest for mining and logging projects. This would severely compromise our last remaining truly wild forest and be a huge blow to biodiversity. These lands are home to pacific salmon, iconic bald eagles, southern resident orcas, and even a 1000-year-old tree! It also contains the traditional homelands of the Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian Peoples.
