Hi Michael...

My apologies for the delay in getting back to you. I have been out of the office a lot lately.

Our meeting with the county was more of a "meet and greet" and there were no decisions made obviously. I gave them an update of where we were in the process and some of the key decision points. I told them what Mark and I told you as far as wanting a better idea of what variances they would grant before we analyzed all the alternatives. As far as direction to you, I still believe it is in the best interest of both of us for you to submit your applications for the variances before we analyze all the possible alternatives. It just doesn't make sense to me to move forward with the analysis until we know what the County will and will not allow on the property. I reiterated with the County that in no way do I want to influence their decisions on how private land is developed - - that is within their authority and I don't want to make any decisions that would conflict with them.

Depending on what the County approves or does not approve, we (Forest Service) will analyze the alternatives. There are a host of complicated issues related to the various alternatives - in addition to the cumulative affects analysis that needs to be done. If we can narrow the scope of alternatives to what the County would actually approve, it is much more efficient.

Feel free to give me a call if you need additional information.
