

There are many strong reasons to support this project.

The top two for me are:

1, The rest of the western world (such as we here in New Zealand) relies on America to maintain peace and democracy in these turbulent times. China is becoming a strong threat to this now with their stockpiling and mining of critical minerals such as stibnite. They will soon be or are in a position to stop or slow American production of weapons, computer chips and other products which mean America will be crippled. To be able to provide 35% of the American requirement for Stibinite is significant for the world.

2. The restoration and improvement of the environment is clearly another contribution to the future of the world.
