

Mines do not repair the environment. Sorry folks I'll take part in this but I've never heard of mines which didn't result in terrible devastating effects to the environment.

I hope that the people responding to this think twice and learn more about mining and what it does.

I hope the Forest Service is not joining so many other destructive cons we out here are being pushed to approve which are bad for the health of our forests, our parks and our country.

Shame on you..
