

I've reviewed the plans to recover antimony from an abandoned mine. And the environmental mitigation the mining company offers. work for the DoD, I can't believe we are so blind as to ignore an opportunity to be secure a strategic mineral that supports our country. I understand that this project has been languishing in bureaucratic red tape. I believe it is in our country's interests to develop our own resources - so that we are no longer dependent on foreign countries that can shut down our country on a whim.

I encourage you to move the Stibnite Gold Project forward.
