I object to the placement of the lines in one of the most iconic views anywhere! This view is the gateway to the Red Rocks and the view that first gets people excited for where they are.

Why can't it be underground it's a very small portion and most impactful view where further out of town the views are beautiful and actually I love the mesas but most people like that wow when they come in from the 179! And if anything push it further down 179 heading towards the 17. The computer simulation is hard to see if the lines are going across the road or running on one side of street and if it's power loss we're worried about it should all be underground for that and fires doesn't make sense why it's not all underground to me if something happens to the grid there then the whole idea is moot and a whole community will be without power. Thank you for your time and consideration this area is for everyone who comes to see it and is a draw for revenue let's not chip away at something beautiful!
