Subject: Protect the wild character of the Chugach !

Alaskan families have benefited from current protections of this precious landscape. Changing that now, by allowing residential timber harvests, expanded motorized uses, manipulation of habitats, mining, and helicopter-assisted skiing and hiking, would hurt people, businesses, and habitat. Keep your longstanding promise to protect the wild character of the entire Wilderness Study Area until Congress finalizes its protection. This means maintaining and clarifying rules on all land-based motorized uses and preserving the area's current undeveloped and nonmotorized character. A wilderness recommendation would also protect our communities, especially those dependent on subsistence traditions and activities. Lands with wilderness characteristics benefit subsistence by protecting the lands and waters in order to support fish and wildlife resources. Subsistence activities are protected in Alaskan wilderness by the provisions of the National Interest Lands Conservation Act (ANILCA), including those reliant on snow machines, float planes, and off-road vehicles. The Forest Service should maintain current protections and recommend their perpetuation into the future. It's the best way to protect subsistence, commercial fishing, recreation, tourism, and great places that Alaskan families have enjoyed for decades.

Growing up in Alaska with the Chugach as my backyard, has been amazing. It's an experience like none other that most people don't get to experience already. I hope that the Chugach will be just as wild for the rest of my life. I hope to be able to show my friends from outside the Chugach. I hope my children grow up hiking and playing in the Forrest.

Please keep your promise to protect the Chugach National Forest for generations to come.

Sincerely,

Claire Bradbury
