Dear Ranger Dalrymple,

These attachments are comments from a Change.org petition that I started. I have 40 signatures at the time of writing this. I am leaving this morning for Ernest Sound where I will have no internet.

I have no doubt that a petition like this started by someone more popular and capable than I am would be much more successful. The statistics from the last protests in the 90's show that over 90% of the people polled were against cutting old growth.

I think James Montgomery's comment about trading these great trees for short-term economic gain is particularly good. It is on page 1.

Thank you.

Tim Murray
