Comments: I have been the sole caregiver for my severely disabled son, 24/7, for almost 16 years. This year, I discovered the respite of trail riding in Colorado. It is the only respite I get and is only for about 3 hours at a time, once or twice a month. I, and the people I ride with, respect nature and the wildlife that we are privileged to share our wilderness with. If this privilege is taken from me/us, I fear I may revert to the hermit that I have been while caring for my son...which is not healthy for a caregiver. The Colorado wilderness is very, very expansive and a few motorized trails have such a minimal impact, as opposed to the impact that may occur with unauthorized and un-regulated motorized trail riding. I plead that this one bright spot in my life not be taken away. Please.
