Comments: The amount of people that these landmarks affect has grown over the years, and taking away the right to access these lands will be devastating. These places contribute to the quality of life of those who explore the areas frequently, and make it worth the poor living conditions in Grays Harbor. Taking these places away from the public will be taking away the freedom to access something beautiful in a world of constant electronic stimulation. Please do not limit our access, we need these places for our own self growth, and happiness.
