Comments: Hello, I'm commenting to keep the winter access available by snowmachines. I use my sled and land access responsibly by bringing out any garbage or debris I bring in during a ride. I use my sled to access regions of the Chugach National Forest for enjoyment of riding sleds and for taking nature pictures. I'm not one who does backcountry backpacking and camping so day trips with the help of my sled gives me the access I like for my past time. Changing the winter access from its current availability will force me to go north from Anchorage and drive further to gain the backcountry access I'm looking for. This will reduce the time I spend in the backcountry exploring and more time behind my windshield driving to these locations.
