

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 6/6/2019 10:57:36 PM

First name: Lance

Last name: Olsen

Organization:

Title:

Comments: Reduction or loss of snow -- a feature of climate change -- has long been recognized as a key risk to aquatic and terrestrial species and systems. I'm attaching a 15 year old article from Science as documentation of snow loss as a recognized risk. In preparing a coherent review of climate effects, you will need to alert interested parties to the risks associated with changing patterns of snow cover