Comments: I support all habitat improvements. Chattahoochee national forest could be the best area in Georgia but has slowly become more stagnate in the past 40 years with lack of timber harvests and bear/hog populations increasing. The Chattahoochee national forest and multiple WMA's inside are definitely a different place than the place in the stories my dad and grandfather tell about in there deer, turkey, and grouse hunting adventures in years past. Thanks for your time and the opportunity to voice my opinion on this matter.
