Comments: My family and I very much enjoy being outdoors and participate in many forms of recreation including hiking, swimming, snowshoeing, skiing, and snowmobiling. I have lived in Idaho my entire life and am very protective of our beautiful lands. My children grew up going on vacations and camping, knowing that we would stop periodically and pick up trash. They were expected to always help and we would leave every area better than we found it. I believe that the Forest Service has overreached their authority, and acted illegally by shutting down our ability to ride in the Great Burn any longer without any justification to do so. They are managing Recommended Wilderness as Wilderness without any consideration as to what the parameters of their authority is. Every time the Forest Service shuts down motorized recreation, they are telling elderly and disabled Americans that they are not allowed to enjoy our Forests. This is their only access to see these beautiful areas and you are taking that away from those less fortunate than yourselves. I find that an extremely disgusting and irresponsible act. It is always the same extremely radical so-called environmental groups (the ones you never see picking up trash or putting boots on the ground to help improve an area) that through threat of lawsuit, govern our lands and the Forest Service. If this continues, we will have no choice but to form a grassroots group, lobbying to defund the Forest Service and their unfair and illegal practices. There was a time a couple of decades in the past that the Forest Service was a great partner for our lands; this is no longer the case. It is time that the Forest Service stopped catering to special interest groups and got back to taking care of our Forests! My tracks don't last!!!
