Comments: Negative miracles will never cease. There's an old folk song about (I can't spell:) If the skeetas' don't get you then the gators will. E-bikes? What will the desecrators of all things think up next? If I had anything to do with it the only visitors who would be allowed in National Parks and National Forests would be arborists and professional fire fighters and folks with advanced degrees from the Yale School of the Environment and other persons like those. Let E-bikes keep to the asphalt. America has long since been "Running on empty, running around" (--Jackson Browne). My feelings may not be fit for public consumption, but, per Donald J. Trump:"It is what it is" (German, per Marin Heidegger: "Es gibt").

Attached picture is the tombstone of a man who was in the building demolition business. The words on the plinth read: WHO WOULD KNOW THE WHENCE THE WHY AND THE WITHER FOLLOW ME.

Wisdom endures and bristlecone pine, too, if "people" will just leave them alone. E-bikes in Nat'l Parks and Forests, less so, I think.
