Suggestions

*

Wild Horses and Burros should receive priority, NOT CATTLE WHICH SO OFTEN HAPPENS. Wild horses and burros are supposed to be protected by law.

Stop cruel round ups. In a study in 2013, the National Academy of Sciences conducted a review of the BLM Wild Horse and Burro Program. Among the findings found that round ups and removal are actually causing wild horse populations to grow at a higher rate due to a biological phenomenon called compensatory reduction.

*

Proven fertility control like in the Nevada Historic Virginia Range.

*

Promote a healthy ecosystem and protect natural predators.

* Encourage wild horse advocacy groups to help with solutions.
