Comments: Holland was the first place I was able to solo adventure here in Montana while feeling safe on my own. I see it as my second home, and my favorite place for my soul to rest and feel nourished. The land and water there are so incredibly healing-It means the absolute world to me, and I cannot imagine it becoming a busy tourist attraction with restaurants and houses. It deserves to be preserved and kept as quiet and well taken care of as it is. The quiet lake is also FILLED with loon nests on the water as well, and they deserve to be in their own home without being disturbed by all of the incoming people! :(PLEASE find another place to do this!!!! The lake and waterfalls mean far too much to too many living beings, humans and animals alike, to be disrupted in this way. ??
