Comments: I'm fully in favor of the entire trail system as proposed by COTA. We can argue the pros and cons all day, but ultimately we'd all be better off just getting out in the woods and letting nature work her magic on us.

Trails give us a way to do just that, from the building to the riding/hiking to the maintaining and improving.

Someday we'll all be dead and gone and these mountains and trees and wildlife will still be thriving just fine without us, as they have for millenia. Why not enjoy them to the fullest while we have the life and passion to do it?
