Comments: In the past we have allowed various actors to decimate forests and the land with minds and digs and what they left was a mess. Wilderness today yes there's a fair amount of it but very little of it is protected and beyond the grasp of those greedy people who want to use and abuse it. Let's take the opportunity when it arises in times such as this to protect the wilderness we can permanently forever not just for future generations but for those who call this habitat home.
