Comments: The mountains they are talking about logging in your proposal are very steep. Cutting the trees will increase the watershed and cause mudslides. I live close to the Daniel Boone National Forest and I'm worried the increase of water and mud coming out of the forest will cause property damage to my residence. I've lived at this location for over 20 years and the water does flood but it's never been bad enough to cause property damage. With more water coming out of the valley behind my home I'm worried.
