Data Submitted (UTC 11): 8/6/2024 7:00:00 AM
First name: Rebecca
Last name: Baker
Organization:
Title:
Comments: It is horrifying to me that we are going backwards in protections for our forests from toxic chemicals. I have read "A Bitter Fog" by Carol VanStrum, and so I know the history of this misguided "management." As Carol states, there is no data to profess safety in using these chemicals, especially when combined. Fortunately some citizens in this state are paying attention; we understand the cost of chemical reliance to solve all of our problems. The "warfare" mentality is a tired one. It's time to work in concert with nature's systems. Stop the spray.