Comments: I am sharing this document, The Case for Cottonwood Canyon: A Profile, as described and shared in my earlier comments from May 25. I spoke about it as well in my initial comment from May 14.
This version is a smaller file, easier to attach and better quality for you the public to view!

Thank you for taking some time to review this history, it is as pertinent today as it was at the time…

Also, please note that many of us who oppose this current Hyalite/Cottonwood Fuel Reduction Project, feel it is reasonable and necessary for the comment period to be extended beyond this date, as we believe the Bozeman public has not been adequately informed of the scoping project, therefore have not had adequate time to review the issues critical to understanding the concerns, as it is a highly debated controversy nationally, and must continue to be, before informed decisions can be made. Even taking the time to read the current available pubic comments is a task that many people who would otherwise like to participate in the discussions...don't have a clue about what is being discussed! MANY people who use these beloved canyons for personal recreation and retreat from their daily grind...have not been exposed to or educated about the issues...and part of that public is the Forest Service! Within the comments currently submitted is a wealth of information that need time to be assimilated and considered.

Thank you so much for the opportunity to to speak out about what many feel has been inadequately considered.
