There are a lot of undefined statements in this request for public input. I think the forest service has too much power as it stands. They are allowed to put up gates where ever and how ever they desire. If the intent of this amendment is to give them more governing power over mineral rights then i am against it. on the other hand if it is allowing them to determine constructive ways to open other mining claims or areas that can be prospected for new minerals or revitalize old workings so other people can profit or enjoy the land then i would be in favor of this. In the END more Government means LESS FREEDOM!
