I do not agree with this I oppose it

There needs to be a policy with a clear list of what equipment requires a Plan of Operation and which do not, what defines a significant disturbance and what does not. Stating that if it causes a significant disturbance and not defining what that means in a measurable and scientific manner is like having no definition. That is where USFS is right now, and that is why there are so many lawsuits surrounding them. The environmental groups are dictating through settlements, what rules the USFS are to make. Order 3368 from Secretary of Interior- Promoting Transparency and Accountability in Consent Decrees and Settlement Agreements will shed some light on these lawsuits abuses.
