Comments: To whom this may concern.

I was born and raised in alaska snowmachining has always been a part of my life and so has the chugach.

There are so many places that you can access with a snowmobile that would take a helicopter or a week to ski there. Snowmobiles cause so little impact to the environment. More people who ski are taking snowmobiles so they can ride more in a day. With a snowmobile you go past where any skier will go. Please contact me if you have any questions. But snowmobiling is a great way to get out and spend time with family. If anything we need more places to access the back country. Respectfully jacob
