Comments: The Chugach National Forest is everybody to enjoy however they want, as long as they don't harm it. I would like to see no more restriction added to the new revision, as there is already enough burden on motorized users as it is. It would be nice to see Resurrection trail go back to motorized use every year and maybe split Juneau creek trail and cooper landing Russian gap trail between motorized and non-motorized use. The summit lake area and turnagain pass areas, it would be nice to alternate area of of the motorized and non motorized areas.

As far as trail damage from snowmobiles, I have seen more damage in the summer time by horses peddle bikes and hikers than snowmobiles could ever do to frozen solid ice and dirt.

Last but not least I don't agree with restricting any area of the park to cater to special interest groups because they don't care for another.

Thank you
