Comments: Is this another example of how the federal government keeps its promises? For some 40 years this land has been protected and suddenly you decide to renege on a long standing promise to protect this area? I say shame, shame on whomever is responsible for this disaster in the making. At the rate the government is going, I would not be surprised to see a proposal to melt down the Status of Liberty and sell it for scrap! If you don't have the brass to stand up to the money behind this, you should at least admit the real reasons for wanting to open this up to logging, mining etc. It's time like these that I am embarrassed to be an American. And I have been one for over 77 years!
