Comments: Please strengthen you current protections for Nellie Juan - College Fjord wilderness study area. The vast majority of this region is primitive in nature: roadless, wild, spectacular. Please maintain the wilderness character of this world-class area. Instead of caving into special interests, and chipping away valuable acres of the study area -- such as Knight Island and Glacier Island -- the Forest Service should do all it can to protect one of Alaska's greatest wild treasures.

most of our nation's national forests contain designated wilderness areas, and yet the Chugach National Forest, while embracing some of the most magnificent country in America, has not one acre of official wilderness.

It's time to rectify that.
