Comments: I grew up in Alaska and I cannot express how deeply important it is to me that we continue to protect our national forests. I have since lived in Idaho and Oregon, where the devastation of human activities like deforestation will affect generations to come and a growing human population has forever altered the landscape.

I only learned about this issue today and sadly must resort to using this website commenting feature to express my plea to the US Forest Service. Please maintain and make permanent current protections for the Chugach National Forest.
