Comments: I'd like to make sure that the road density isn't so high that it causes erosion and a big inventory of roads to maintain, because they're expensive to maintain, so I leave it to the scientific discretion of the Forest Service to make sure that we don't have more roads than we need.

I would like to see the forest used for livestock grazing, specifically, to the health of the forest.

I agree with the gentleman about more wilderness areas, I think that's really important. Those areas are what you can consider God-intended, that's the way they were made, and I'd like to see more of those.
