Comments: To whom it may concern,

We need more selective cuts, more herd animals grazing and access roads left in place. The fire danger you people have created is unacceptable. The mismanagement that is currently taking place is near treasonous. The taxpayers of this nation deserve to be making a profit off this land, not wasting money on fire protection. Kissing the rear of druids on the east coast, Seattle, and California causes more harm than good. If they want more wilderness area, give them the 200k acres that burned up last year. Anyone find out how many billions of tons of CO2 was released by that 1 fire alone? I would love to attach a pic from Boulder Pass, but the file on the destruction is too large.
