

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 6/30/2016 4:09:36 PM

First name: Thomas

Last name: Brady

Organization:

Title:

Comments: You need to take global climate change into account in your planning document. The global temperature has already risen 1.5 degrees Celsius as of right now. Climate scientists have stated if we reach 2.0 degrees then it will be hard to maintain cool water temperatures for trout, frogs, and other species. It is also imperative that no clear cutting occurs because soil temperature will also be too hot for growth so shade and seed trees will be critical.

Thomas M Brady, MS, MPH