Comments: Thank you for the opportunity to comment. I attended last nights information session and would like to express my desire for the road(s) in question to remain as they are and have been for years. Dirt.

While an old homestead property at one point I don't see the need for improvements to the forest service roads accessing this parcel for its new intended use, an exclusive enclave for the elite homeowner. I feel the destructive construction of bringing utilities and improving access while shutting out a large portion of the valleys population from that area recreationally for years is an appropriate use of the need for this easement. Then we will be left with a paved access road that is against the areas present use as an easy, close area for Mtn biking, hiking and so on. I find it hard to believe that of the 19 homes currently proposed(and subject to change after this easement is granted) there will be many that actually live there on a year round basis. Traffic will increase dramatically in the area for years as workers swarm to complete the utility and initial construction phase and then for perpetuity as they maintain homes in that area.

My vote is there is adequate access currently and that this easement is not needed.
