Comments: As a resident of Arizona, and long time proponent of OHV recreation (particularly in the form of motorized singletrack), I could not be more happy and supportive than to see additional trails being put in in my state. Even more exciting, is that these trails will be in Southern Arizona, an area full of passionate dirt bike riders, that has an extreme lack of motorized singletrack trails for its residents. I, personally, love making trips throughout this great state to see beauty, and have experiences different from my home in the Phoenix metro area. Am I significantly more drawn to these opportunities when they allow for me to have experiences on my motorcycle. Southern AZ has been a place I have not made strong efforts to explore, in part due to a lack of singletrack trails for me to enjoy. This will absolutely change with the introduction of the Tumacacori Red-Springs trail project, and I know that I am not the only person echoing this sentiment. Thank you to all involved, and I look forward to future opportunities to ride, participate in trail maintenance, and experience some new areas thanks to this trail project.
