Comments: Opening up this much land in such a delicate ecosystem is not a good idea for several reasons. Number one; roads into this area will create a large impact with erosion and allowing access to areas that were previously protected/avoided by extractive uses. Number two; opening more areas to extraction adds to global climate change issues as. We should be leaving resources in the ground and out of our atmosphere. We are producing more natural gas than the country needs right now. The resources in this forest belong to the people of the United States. We should not be extracting them to sell on foreign markets. Leave it in the ground for the future. If we need it later, then, there it is, but this is only an attempt to allow a corporation to profit off of our resources. Please protect my resources for my future. These things don't belong to individual companies and that profit should be one we all enjoy, which would be best enjoyed using that space renewably and not trashing it for fossil fuel extraction.
