Comments: To whom it may concern:

I have been very honored to call the state Nevada and the Ruby mountains my home and haven for the last 6 years. The Rubies are considered the Swiss alps of the united states and it is home and habitat to countless endangered species, wild life and forests. its pristine lakes are natural and untouched. The views of these majestic mountains are literally aw-inspiring. As an avid outdoor enthusiast i spend much of my life hiking, camping, snow shoe shoeing, exploring and foraging among these beautiful aspens. upon hearing news of these proposed endeavors I am not only shocked but horrified at what might become of these untouched lands. The people, the wild life, the water and the land. I speak for many when I insist that this initiative must be stopped!! These precious lands must be saved, protected and advocated for. So that my children and your future grandchildren may enjoy what is still left of this great country frontier! Please, keep the west wild and the waters blue.

in loving service,

very concerned citizen
