Comments: With millions of barren acres available across the west, why in the world would you open up the "American Alps" to drilling or any other commercial use beyond logging for habitat enrichment. The Ruby Mountains are perhaps Nevada's most precious natural treasure and deserves the utmost protection against any and all uses that may threaten this rare natural gift. Rest assured those of us who value this land will fight with all our resources to protect it from any action that enriches the few at the expense of many.
