Comments: I have hiked and camped through parts of the Ruby Mountains, and they are without a doubt some of the most spectacular sights to be seen in the State of Nevada. Many people who I have shared photos of this gorgeous terrain with have had a hard time believing that this place exists in Nevada. It truly is an oasis of life in the desert and offers a unique and much needed habitat for a myriad of creatures. It is unlike any place in Nevada and is one of its most under-appreciated assets. The Ruby Mountains are no place for oil and gas leasing. Please do yourself and the State of Nevada a favor and do a google search for images of the Ruby Mountains and Lamoille Canyon. Thank you for your time.
