Comments: As a lifelong Colorado resident and two wheel trail user for nearly 40 years. My desire is to keep these trails open to the core users that respect and maintain them. The large majority of users are very respectful of the natural resources we have in colorado and are curious to other types of users when ever our paths cross. There can be a productive conversation and mutually beneficial resolution to any differences user groups may have regarding these trail systems. We need to put aside the wedge that seems to be driven between the various groups by outside groupthink and work together to ensure public can share and enjoy every thing Colorado has to offer.
