Comments: I am opposed to any plan that restricts wild buffalo migration patterns. The Custer Gallatin's decision to cede its authority to manage buffalo and their habitat to Montana is in conflict with the U.S. Congress's mandate to provide diversity on National Forests.

Fencing schemes that disrupt buffalo's natural migrations and connectivity to habitat, livestock grazing allotments that displace buffalo from their home ranges, and state intolerance, threaten the viability and diversity of buffalo - a native keystone species.

Thank you for accepting my comments.
