Comments: The Noland & Owen family (whom Owen Basic was named after) in what you call the Gold Run District had run sheep and cattle in the area for centuries. By grazing both, the grass was kept in check and made the forests healthy and in less danger of having the forest fires Colorado has had these past few years. I object to the change of NOT letting sheep graze. I am a Noland. I believe you would do more harm than good in not being good stewards to the land our ancestors worked so diligently to preserve.
