Dear Acting District Ranger Joshua Nicholes,

Do you have any idea what you are doing? Of course you do. You are yielding to wealthy interests and sacrificing something precious for money. You are choosing to push our entire world closer to utter catastrophe. Even if it doesn't come to that, you are allowing a whole ecosystem to suffer for petty nothingness. Why don't you just go and shoot dead every creature and burn every plant yourself? The results will be the same, except you are more likely to realize what an utter monster you can be. Or you can choose to deny the fracking and preserve the Ruby Mountains and help stop the destruction of our entire planet.

Sincerely,

Philip Donaldson
