Comments: Although I live in Arizona, I have visited Crested Butte, and had an opportunity to see Granite Basin, Cement Mountain, and the surrounding area. I was overwhelmed with the beauty of the area. It is a real treasure. Designating this region as a Wilderness will serve to protect it against any potential future efforts to destroy or exploit this area. Over 50 years ago President Johnson had the foresight to support the Wilderness Act, which has turned out to be a wonderful thing. Granite Basin certainly deserves this protection.
