

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 4/22/2018 12:22:28 PM

First name: shane

Last name: varner

Organization:

Title:

Comments: another reason or two to keep a substantial part as un touched, old growth.

it's needed for research. link is to an article I originally read in Smithsonian.

<https://www.smithsonianmag.com/science-nature/the-whispering-trees-180968084/>

I have no problem with logging or oil/gas, we have both on our family's tree farm, but not enough acreage for old growth in the full sense.

my opinion is that the national forest should do what individual landowners often cannot, but that it also should fund itself as much as possible.

and thanks for asking :)