Comments: Wayne NF timbering

I am all for national forest land being timbered in 50 acre parcels, we grouse hunted the George Washington national forest in Va. and found grouse at their timbered location, same in Wisconsin.

I think environmentalists would endorse "habitat diversity" and the proceed could be used to buy more land and grow the national forest.

Regarding the gas line access ,it can be used for food plot and the same "habitat diversity" but that is a tougher sell.

Can you contact the people in Virginia and see what was involved in getting the timbering started there?

We were just Turkey hunting in Wayne and had Grouse drumming only in recently timbered areas, also song bird diversity was at its best at these transitional areas.
