Title: Water Chair

Comments: I have reviewed this project on the ground. It makes sense and is a good investment because it will provide cold water habitat in the shade. Even though, in general, restoration should start from the "top" of the watershed and work down, in this case we need the habitat in the main stems now so that we can retain the Spring Chinook.

But we also need to restore the headwaters which have been damaged by grazing beginning with Long Gulch Creek.
