Comments: I would First like to say I apose closing any snow mobile access. I have friends that snowmobile a lot and I have gone with them what a wonderful experience. I was planning on taking my family and staying in Dardinelle resort this winter until it burn down along with all of those cabins but I understand the forest service station was saved ! Anyways there is a ton of wilderness out there set aside for non-motorized vehicles I believe the near natural should stay open to snowmobiles. Herring Creek, Long Valley, Eagle Meadow, Millcreek, Sonora pass, pacific valley, Highland Lakes I have been to bear Valley ski resort after it closes in the spring time for snowmobiling and sledding on the hills with my kids also I have been to the Sonora past when it opens and still snowmobile accessible please keep these two areas open not when the gate opens but when the snow melts thank you. Also as I was reading through some of the comments they talk about the coyotes running in the snowmobile tracks what about the coyote is gaining access on the snow ski/snowshoe tracks did anyone think of this. Thank you for your time let's keep this the land of many uses
