Comments: The forest is a terrible place to locate a shooting range. All gun ranges have the potential for anyone on the range or near the range to be shot accidentally. This type of accident happens at gun ranges. The loud noise of discharged guns will be an ongoing nuisance to all of the wildlife and to anyone who has entered the forest area to enjoy the peace and quiet of the woods. The sound of gunshots is always disturbing. Lead pollution both in the soil and the air will be unavoidable. This is the absolutely worst place to locate a gun range. I urge you to cancel any further consideration of this absurd proposal.

Sincerely,

E. Brooks
